

Women, Violence and HIV

Presented by

Ambassador Stephen Lewis

Co-Director, AIDS-Free World

U.N. Special Envoy for HIV/AIDS in Africa (2001 – 2006)

Monday, October 12, 2009, 4:00 PM

University of California, San Francisco

School of Nursing Building, Room N-225

Introduction by: Chancellor Susan Desmond-Hellmann
University of California, San Francisco

Discussion Panel

Shari L. Dworkin, Ph.D., M.S., Associate Professor, Department of Social & Behavioral Sciences, Affiliated Faculty, Center for AIDS Prevention Studies (CAPS), University of California, San Francisco

Ruth Greenblatt, M.D., Professor of Clinical Pharmacy, Medicine, Epidemiology, and Biostatistics, and Director, Women's Specialty Program, University of California, San Francisco; Principal Investigator, Women's Interagency HIV Study; Director, Bay Area Research Consortium on Women and AIDS

Joel Paul, Professor and Associate Dean, International and Graduate Programs, University of California Hastings College of the Law

Reception to immediately follow in the foyer

Sponsored By:

AIDS Research Institute
at University of California, San Francisco

UCSF GLOBAL HEALTH SCIENCES

To improve health and reduce disease worldwide

Global Strategies for HIV Prevention

Celebrating 10 Years of HIV Prevention and Care

Center for HIV Information

Golden Gate University School of Law & Sompong
Sucharitkul Center for Advanced International Legal Studies

UCSF Center for AIDS Prevention Studies; UCSF-UC
Hastings Consortium on Law, Science & Health Policy

University of California, Berkeley: Human Rights Center, William & Ariadna Miller Institute for Global Challenges & the Law, and The Chief Justice Warren Institute on Race, Ethnicity &
Diversity

UC Hastings College of the Law: Center for Gender & Refugee Studies, Refugee & Human Rights
Clinic

Santa Clara University School of Law: Center on Social Justice & Public Interest, Center for Global Law & Policy